Mercury marking 6 degrees above zero - 27 degrees below freezing. More than one hundred shivering creatures gathered about the doors of "The Evening World" Free Food Commission at 20 Murray street.

These were the conditions that presented themselves to the manager of this practical charity at 7 o'clock this morning.

Although it was four hours before the time of opening the place the doors were unfastened and the distribution was begun immediately. By 10 o'clock more than 1,000 applicants, bringing letters from the clergyman of the church or synagogue where they worshipped, were served with the wherewithal for a Saturday and a Sunday feast.

The "Goose Market," by which title Gatesvort Market is known in the produce and vegetable trade, furnished the greater part of the supply for today's distribution. It included more than 200 bushels of potatoes, more than 100 bushels of Russian turnips, onions and bushels of onions, parsnips, carrots and beets, hundreds of heads of cabbage, strings of bananas, dozens of eggs and parcels of dry beans, tea, rice, ham, chicken and soup-meat.

There were besides radishes, apple greens, canned salmon, oranges, lemons, fruit of charity, and all the things which are so necessary to provide for an army.

The poor of the great metropolis are greater in number than an army, but no one was sent away empty-handed. The clergyman of the city have performed their duty admirably, and hundreds who presented notes from the parish minister, who were known to be in need, were helped at "The Evening World" Free Food Commission today.

MR. MUNRO'S CONDITION.

Very ill as the result of an operation for Appendicitis.

As the result of a severe surgical operation performed yesterday, Norman L. Munro, the publisher, lies in a precarious condition in his apartments at the Hoffman House.

Mr. Munro had been suffering from severe pains in the back, and became convinced that he had appendicitis. Dr. Abbe was called in and removed his vermiform appendix.

Last Sunday, Mr. Munro's eleven-year-old son went under a similar operation. It is supposed his malady was caused by injuries received while coasting. He is getting on nicely. No foreign substance was found in either case, but in both instances there was a severe gangrenous inflammation of the appendix.

Mr. Munro is a big, vigorous man, and may recover.

Erastus Wiman was discharged from the Sheriff's custody a few minutes before noon today, and is now a free man. His bondsman was Charles H. Deere, a wealthy manufacturer of Moline, Ill., whose daughter is married to Mr. Wiman's son, W. Dwight Wiman, who is now lying so ill at his home in Staten Island.

It was not known who had furnished the money for Mr. Wiman's bail until the bond was finally accepted and Mr. Wiman's discharge was announced by Clerk Carroll in General Sessions, after Recorder Smith had signed the order admitting him to bail.

Chief Clerk Alfred G. Coale, of the office of Tracy, Boardman & Platt, called at the office of the District Attorney shortly after 11 o'clock this morning. He was accompanied by Norman S. Walker, Mr. Wiman's son-in-law, and a large, stout gentleman, who afterwards proved to be Mr. Deere.

After an interview of ten minutes or so with Bond Clerk Unger, a messenger was despatched to the Sheriff's office with instructions to fetch Mr. Wiman down from the Tombs, and it was announced that the money was ready for his bail.

Mr. Coale and Mr. Deere went over to the City Chamberlain's office at once, where they were met by Mr. Wiman's son-in-law, who showed them to the office of the Chamberlain, where Mr. Wiman was being held. Mr. Wiman was then taken to the Tombs, where he was held in custody.

Mr. Wiman walked down from the Tombs and into a private car, where he was met by Mr. Deere. Mr. Wiman was then taken to the Tombs, where he was held in custody.

"I used to dine the same every day for twenty years. I did not think I should ever be behind the bars so close by," said Mr. Wiman.

"I have heard from my son, Willie, since midnight, but I have derived some consolation from the fact that he was in the same predicament as I was," said Mr. Wiman.

Mr. Wiman added that when his friend, Mr. Deere, visited him in the Tombs yesterday, he was in a state of mind that he could not be judged by what he said or did.

As soon as Mr. Wiman reached the District Attorney's office, he was met by a man who was in the office of the Chamberlain, and who was in the office of the Chamberlain.

He distributed these among the people in the office and the newspaper men, and he was in the office of the Chamberlain.

But it is the rounded face of a man that most of the people in the office of the Chamberlain were looking at. It was the face of a man who had been in the office of the Chamberlain.

Mr. Wiman was then taken to the Tombs, where he was held in custody. Mr. Wiman was then taken to the Tombs, where he was held in custody.

RAISE THE PRICE OF ICE.

That is What is Possible Regarding This Weather.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Feb. 24.—Regarding the report that the price of ice is to be raised this year, a representative of the Knickerbocker Ice Company said this morning:

"The crop this far this season is light. We have not harvested nearly as much as we should, yet the present cold snap is a severe one and is making good ice. We have the remainder of this month and the entire month of March before us and we hope to secure as large a crop as last year. We will not know until we get the crop in hand and we cannot tell how we will come out. We have some ice left over from last year."

"As to prices, we are not yet prepared to talk. No one can say what the price for selling goods will be until the supply is known. I do not apprehend at present that there will be any rise in prices, but we will not know definitely whether the price will be raised until late in the spring."

Three hundred men in the employ of the Knickerbocker Company are at work clearing ice in the Hudson preparatory to cutting it.

DEUTSCHLAND GOES ASHORE.

A Big Oil Tank Steamship Comes to Grief on Robbins Reef.

The tank steamship Deutschland, owned by the Dutch-American Petroleum Company, went ashore at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon on Robbins Reef.

The Deutschland was in tow of four tugs, and had left her dock at Bayonne, N. J., half an hour before. She was bound for New York, and the northwest wind kicked up an ugly sea.

Just as the steamship neared the reef, she suddenly sheered to port and in spite of the efforts of the four tugs she grounded heavily on the rocks. Captain Dinklage was not on board at the time the vessel was in charge of the chief officer.

The Deutschland carried over a million gallons of oil, and it is believed that the ship will have to be lightened before she can be gotten off the reef.

The vessel was a very big vessel, 243 tons. She seems to be very lucky. She was launched in 1892, having been built in Berlin, Germany. On her first voyage from this port on Jan. 12, she ran aground in Godfrey's Channel. It was a heavy sea, and the vessel struck a pair her, and 200,000 gallons of oil were taken out before she floated from the mudbank.

It is not believed that the vessel can be floated this afternoon, as the tide is ebbing fast.
